Description of the experience: aim, methods and outcomes	This project consisted of several online training sessions teaching library staff to work with the “Analytical description of articles: Regional History” programme from Module e-Lib / I-Lib Prima software. This programme allows users to create and maintain a database of analytical descriptions of articles from newspapers, magazines, periodical collections, book excerpts and reviews. The online trainers were experts from SoftLib Ltd., whose software we used. The new module will make it easier for users to access our rich regional studies collection on the Internet. Sharing our regional history globally allows users to explore the history, culture and public life of the Dobrudzha region at any time and from anywhere, whether for educational, research, cultural or touristic reasons. This project was implemented to improve the library team's competencies working with new technologies under the 2022 Program for Restoration and Development of State, Regional and Municipal Cultural Institutes, part of the National Culture Fund's project, The Library – New Platforms for Access to Literary Heritage, Space for Intercultural Dialogue.
